Lifecycle Management

Lower Your Computing Costs with a Lifecycle Management Solution from MCPc

Almost every two years, processing power doubles and technology quickly becomes outdated.

Desktop systems have always contained components that have a limited design life. In addition, new security features, plus a need for speed and wireless capabilities, make it nearly impossible to run a business on outdated PCs and laptops.

The MCPc Lifecycle Management program offers an easy way to help manage your computer inventory and leverage your existing technology. Our team of experienced technicians will work with you to update PCs at regular intervals so you can utilize the latest software components and make the most of your current infrastructure.

A Comprehensive Approach

Our dedicated team of Lifecycle experts is committed to helping you in your technology refresh initiatives. The MCPc Lifecycle Management program ensures that your systems are configured, installed, upgraded, resold or disposed of, based on your ongoing business needs. Our program can help lower deployment costs, optimize productivity for your employees, and help manage your business through the life of your technology products.

Expertise You Can Count On

At MCPc, we manage your technology needs from start to finish, so you don't have to. We evaluate your current technologies and recommend products that will help accomplish your business plans and objectives.

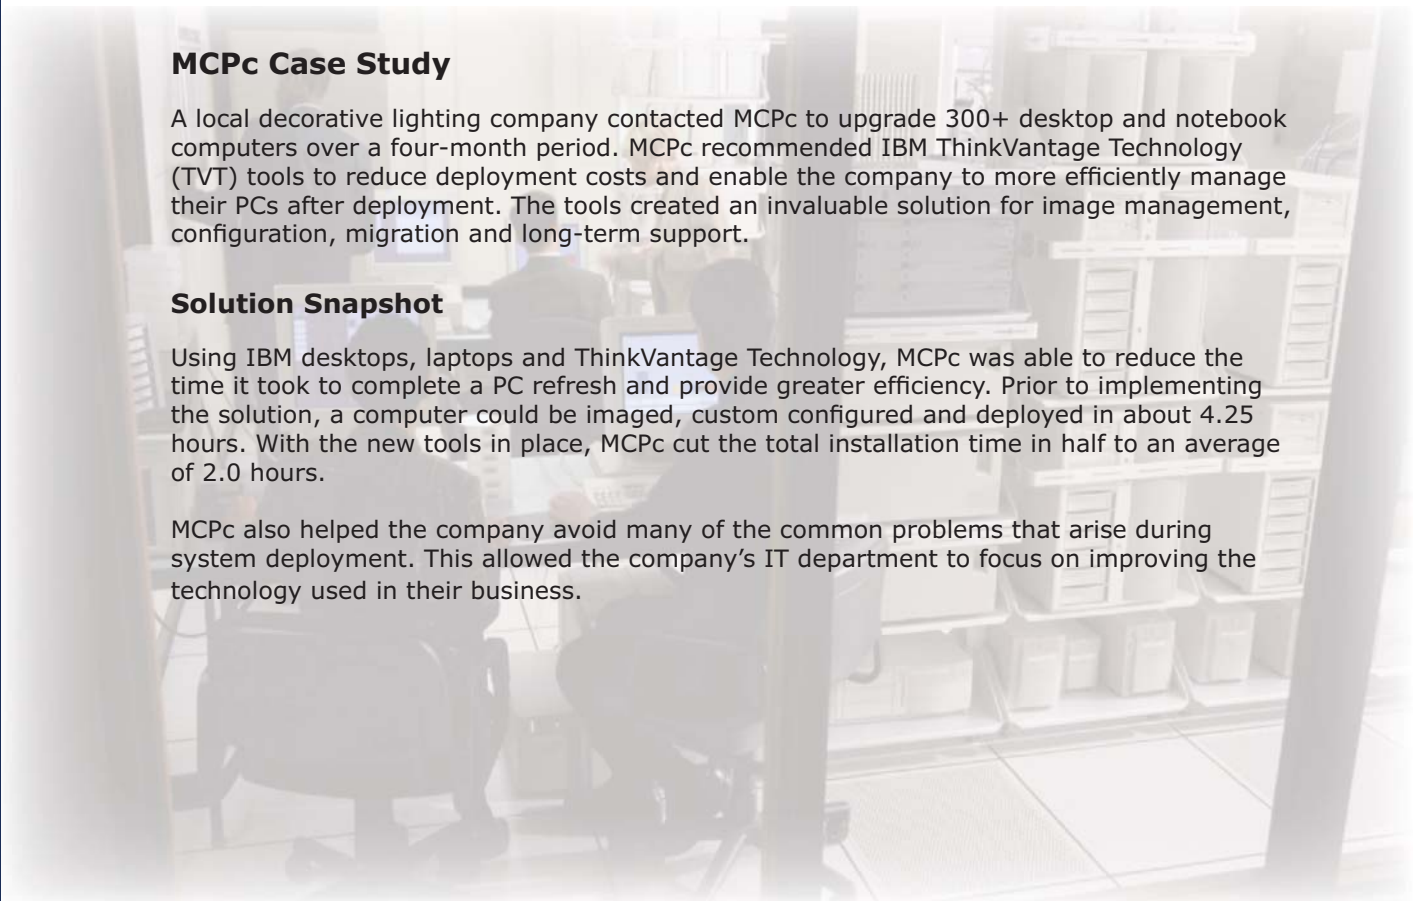

MCPc Case Study

A local decorative lighting company contacted MCPc to upgrade 300+ desktop and notebook computers over a four-month period. MCPc recommended IBM ThinkVantage Technology (TVT) tools to reduce deployment costs and enable the company to more efficiently manage their PCs after deployment. The tools created an invaluable solution for image management, configuration, migration and long-term support.

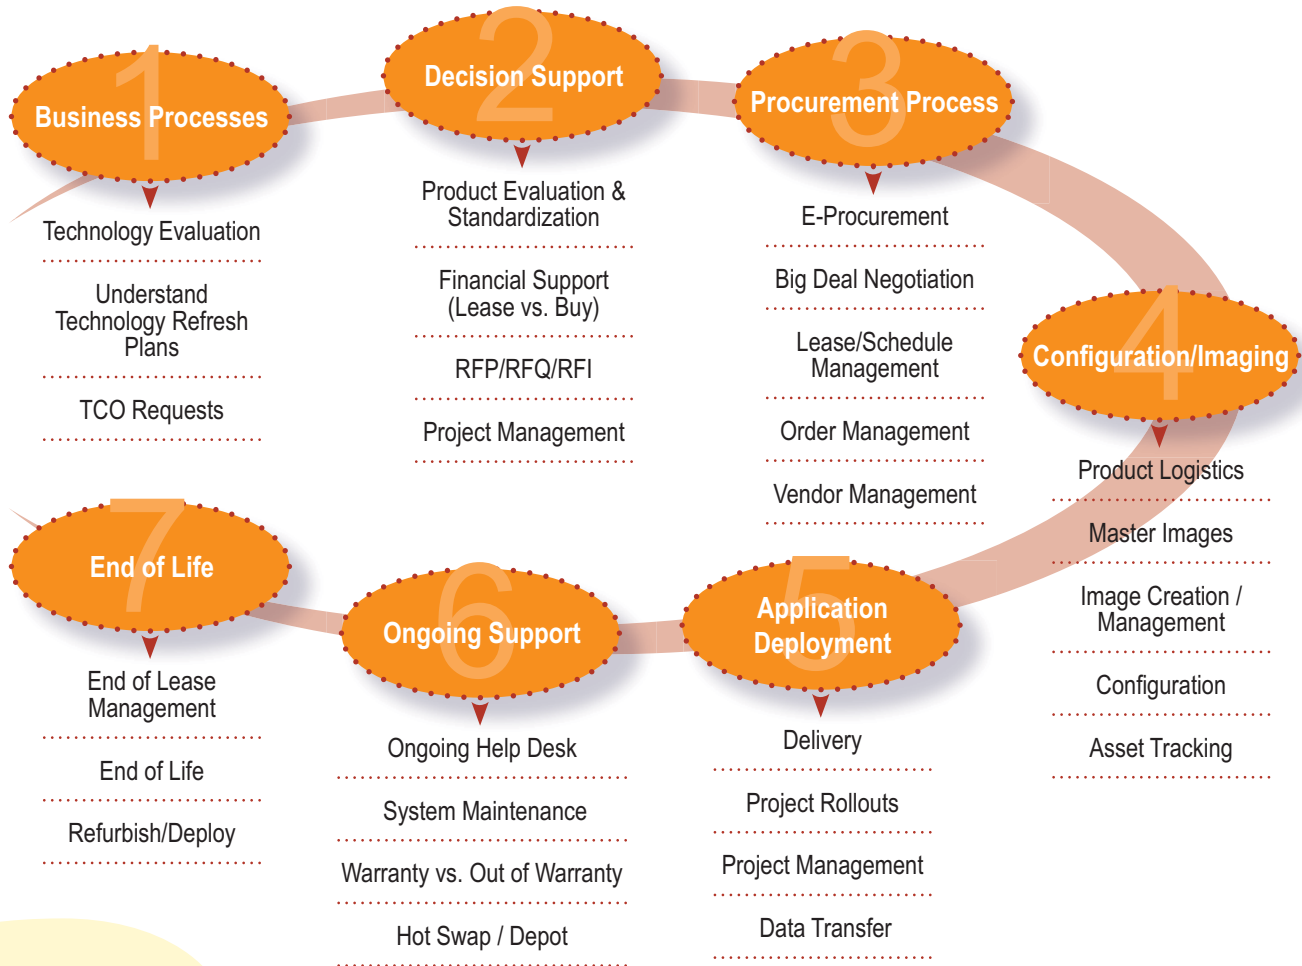

Solution Snapshot

Using IBM desktops, laptops and ThinkVantage Technology, MCPc was able to reduce the time it took to complete a PC refresh and provide greater efficiency. Prior to implementing the solution, a computer could be imaged, custom configured and deployed in about 4.25 hours. With the new tools in place, MCPc cut the total installation time in half to an average of 2.0 hours.

MCPc also helped the company avoid many of the common problems that arise during system deployment. This allowed the company's IT department to focus on improving the technology used in their business.
